

IP is pivotal to the value of many businesses. Yet the commercial strength and value of technology, brands and innovation is often poorly articulated in information memorandums. Or misjudged by buyers. If the bulk of the value of a corporate transaction is driven by technology and brands, it makes sense to 'kick the tyres' of these assets...